

News in Conservation, Issue 83, April-May 2021

The brand new issue of "News in Conservation" begins with some fun thoughts on the Lunar New Year and announcements of things to come! "February marked the Lunar New Year, and for anyone who celebrated, you know we are now in the year of the ox. The ox is said to be patient and methodical, hardworking but often doing so behind the scenes going unrecognized. While there are plenty of other traits ascribed to those born in the year of the ox, these stuck out to me as being traits that conservators so often possess. Perhaps 2021 is also the year of the conservator..."
